Top 10 Female Entrepreneurs of 2020

It's a man's world, they say. But after many years of ceaseless efforts and confidence-building, women have cemented themselves into every stratum of different societies across the world. While the collective history of women put them in subservient positions, we see empowered women everywhere change the landscape of every field. In the entrepreneurial world, hundreds of women challenge the status quo and prove that they can do greater things.
